Olea Beige

Our product named Olea Belge is one of our most demanded products, with its special vein structure that does not repeat itself, which can carry the originality given to it by nature to the area where it is applied, and with the price advantage it offers. Olea beige is a product that is difficult to scratch and abrade, thanks to its hardness value of approximately 4 Mohs. In this sense, it is preferred in places such as shopping malls, hotels and airports where human traffic is intense. It is suitable for use both indoors and outdoors, on the floor and walls. In addition, it has a unique atmosphere, different from other beiges, with its slightly gray color.

Light Emperador

Thanks to its homogeneous structure, beige marble can work in harmony with other dark natural stones of the selection, which is in demand as a high-quality paving stone in luxury projects. Beige marble is used in interior flooring, wall cladding and column cladding areas in all buildings with large areas such as business centers, airports, hotels and fairgrounds. The surfaces into which light movements enter are separated and grouped in the factories. Since there are many vein structure appearances, it is necessary to determine the most suitable veined stone in project-based requests. Large projects use white and cream tones more frequently, as the appearance of dark tones in Light Emperador classic marble, large-area flooring and covering areas make the environment muffled. The selections used as Light Emperador classic marble, Indoor large-area flooring and coating give very efficient results in ensuring homogeneity and integrity throughout the application. Many types of epoxy mesh are applied to increase durability. Beige marble is rarely used in application areas where a decorative appearance is desired, such as countertops and sinks.
